1 Maggie was staying at her friend Sophie's in Derby for a few days. They were getting 2 ready to go out for a night on the town, and discussing Sophie's impending wedding
3 to her fiancé Tony. Maggie was looking forward to being a bridesmaid.
4 "Tony wants to invite his whole bloomin' family," said Sophie, "And he's got a 5 big family, that's for sure! They're scattered about everywhere! I mean, there's his 6 dad in Scotland for starters..." "Is his dad Scottish?" asked Maggie, applying her 7 blusher. "No, but his partner is. His dad's got five brothers and a half-sister, so Tony's 8 got cousins coming out of his ears." Sophie paused. "There's his cousin John – the 9 Welsh one – who lives in Cardiff. There's Jackie... and Manda in London; and then 10 there's his Grandma and her new boyfriend in Belfast, and..." "How many people can 11 you invite?" interrupted Maggie, lacing up her boots. "About forty-five," replied Sophie.
12 "We might be able to fit in a few more, if they don't have the sit-down meal. Thank 13 goodness my family's just my parents and my brother!" "Don't forget my family," 14 said Maggie, checking her outfit in the full-length mirror. "Dennis will definitely go, 15 although I doubt he'll sit through the whole sermon in the church. He'll probably 16 wander outside and text his mates." "Yeah, and that reminds me – I should invite my 17 godmother in Manchester," said Sophie. They left the house and walked briskly to 18 the bus stop. "She'll want me to invite her whole flippin' brood. Like, she's got two 19 kids in Cardiff – Lee and Sam, you know – and sisters in Liverpool, Birmingham..."
20 "The more the merrier!" laughed Maggie, adjusting her earrings, "It'll be OK."

Note: in the text Sophie uses several discourse markers when she speaks. Discourse markers are words or phrases that have no meaning on their own, but which help the speaker to organise what they're saying. The function of "I mean..." (line 5) and "Like..." (line 18) is to draw attention to what follows. The function of "you know..." (line 19) is to give the speaker a short pause – thinking time – before they continue.
